

VFC FN SCAR H (SCAR H)

The real SCAR H fires 7.62x51mm NATO rounds. Of course the Airsoft version only fires BB's! I've had the VFC SCAR H for just under a year now and I am very impressed with it. It has performed well and has good range and decent accuracy too

The SCAR H comes in tan or black and looks almost like the real thing. It has a good weight to it to and feels good when you hold it. It boasts markings which make it look a lot better and adds to the realism.

The internals didn't let me down either. VFC are well known for making some of the best gearboxes on the Airsoft market, and the SCAR's gearbox is no exception.

The SCAR H has an ambidextrous fire selector making it easier to use for both right handed and left handed shooters. The SCAR H's stock is collapsible and can be adjusted into 6 different positions and it also folds for when you're up close and personal! The cheek piece has 3 different positions and helps aid you look down the sites on your gun. The stock is also where the battery compartment is. Due to its clever design you can fold the stock without having problems with the wiring which connects the battery. The main problem with the battery compartment is that it is quite cramped and it can sometimes become difficult to get the battery in and out again. Remember when putting the battery in the gun YOU MUST ALWAYS PUT THE BATTERY IN FIRST THEN THE WIRES.

The gun has an adjustable hop up. I have added a blue hop rubber to mine to improve it. The SCAR H also has a MOSFIT which enables you to fire your gun on semi auto as much as you want without encountering any long term problems.

In my opinion the VFC FN SCAR H is one of the best guns on the Airsoft market and is a must have for any SCAR fans. There are very few problems with this gun and it performs well.

FPS: 320-340

Price: £400

Review by Alex Gale

Alex Gale's Website: www.ghostwolves.co.uk

Spelling Corrected By Mitchell Gee (Alex, put it through word first... :P)